

People - Trees and the Environment

In the heart of every forest lies a delicate balance between people and nature. Here, at the Forest Heritage Center, we explore how our actions shape the environment and how trees, in turn, sustain us.

From providing clean air and shelter to wildlife, to serving as a source of inspiration and recreation, trees are integral to our lives. Through sustainable forestry practices, we ensure that future generations can enjoy the benefits of our forests.

Join us in preserving our natural heritage. Together, we can nurture forests that thrive for generations to come.
